[To be Continued.]

CHAPTER X.

May 2, 1865, broke camp at Burkeville at noon and marched toward Richmond, along the Richmond and Danville R. R., twelve miles and bivouacked near Jetersville.

May 3, marched from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m., twenty-five miles, by Amelia Court House, and camped near R. R.

May 4, marched from 7 a. m. to sunset, excepting the usual noon halt for dinner, twenty miles, and camped five miles west of Richmond, Va.

May 5, marched a few miles in the forenoon and camped two miles from Manchester and in sight of Richmond, a mile beyond.

May 6, left camp at 11 a. m., marched through Manchester, crossed the James river on pontoon bridge; marched through Richmond in review, down Front and up Main Street, with music and unfurled banners. Emerging from the city on the north, crossed the west branch of the Chickahominy river and camped five miles north of the city; marched ten miles.

May 7, Sunday, the march was resumed at 7 a. m. and continued all day, along meandering roads, twenty miles; crossed and camped five miles north of the Pamunkey river.

May 8, marched from 9 a. m. till 5 p. m., when we crossed the Polecat river and camped, having marched eighteen miles.

May 9, marched from 8 a. m. to 7 p. m., fifteen miles, in deep mud and heavy showers. Crossed, during the day, the Mat, Ta, Po and Ny rivers, the four branches that form the Mattapony river; camped just north of the Ny.

May 10, left camp on the Ny at an early hour; marched on the Richmond and Fredericksburg Telegraph road; passed Massaponax Church at 10 a. m. and at 12 m. marched through Fredericksburg; crossed the Rappahannock river on pontoon bridge, thence up the river through Falmouth to Potomac creek and camped, after marching twenty miles.

May 11, resumed the march at an early hour. The roads were very muddy; marched all day to make fifteen miles, and camped near Quantico creek, east of Forestburg, Va.

May 12, left camp at Forestburg at 8 a. m., crossed Quantico creek and marched till 4 p. m. when we reached the Occoquan river and camped near the town of Occoquan, Va., having marched about fifteen miles.

May 13, moved out at 5 a. m.; crossed the Occoquan river on pontoon bridge; marched twenty miles and camped five miles west of Alexandria, Va., at sundown.

May 14, Sunday, in temporary camp over Sunday.

May 15, packed up early in the morning and marched north about five miles and went into regular camp near Forts Reynolds and Ward, five miles west of Washington.

May 23, reveille sounded at 2 a. m.; the boys turned out promptly. Left camp at 3 a. m., marched to Washington. Crossed the Potomac by the Long Bridge into Washington at daybreak. Marched in "Grand Review of the Army of the Potomac," which comprised the 2nd, 5th and 9th Corps and Sheridan's Cavalry Corps. Returned by way of Georgetown and Arlington, crossing the Potomac river at Georgetown, by a pontoon bridge at foot of High St.; reached camp late in the evening, after marching twenty miles.

Note from Wm. B. Kerr.

* * * Have now been in Omaha, Nebraska, eight months and can say that I have found it a pretty decent sort of town. I have a position in the office of the general auditor of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, and like my work quite well. About five hundred clerks are employed in the general offices.

The weather has been very pleasant this spring: just about a normal amount of rainfall, and everything in the way of vegetation looks fine.

I extend my congratulations to Ted Bailey on account of the able manner in which he handled the story of the execution at the county seat.

With kind regards, and best wishes for the success of the Reporter, I am

Sincerely yours,
WM. B. KERR.

Cold Wave and Frost.

A cold wave struck Central Pennsylvania latter part of last week. Frost did some harm to corn and garden vegetables Saturday night. The thermometer registered as follows: Friday night, 38 degrees; Saturday night, 34 degrees; Sunday night, 37 degrees.

"STATE" SOURS ON PENNY.

Pennsylvania State College is considerably soured on Governor Pennypacker, because he cut the appropriation $96,000—a pretty sum. The department that was cut was that of Agriculture. A previous legislature appropriated $100,000 for an agricultural building and equipment, with the understanding that no part of it was available until plans for a building, etc., had been filed, the total cost of which was not to be over $250,000. The plans were drawn up and filed with the auditor general, who accepted the same. The legislature appropriated the remaining $150,000 of the $250,000, and an additional $21,580 for a tunnel to convey heat, light, etc. The latter item was totally cut out, and the $150,000 divided by two.

It is intimated in some quarters that the Governor took this advantage to even things up with "State" for being obliged to sit behind a screen, on the floor level, on the occasion of the dedication of the Carnegie Library, last fall.

The position occupied by His Excellency during the ceremonies incident to the dedication of that magnificent edifice, it must be admitted, made the champion of the Grady-Salus libel bill look insignificantly small, but he should not seek to punish the farmers of Pennsylvania for that act. If the Governor felt as hurt as he looked pitiful, when pushed to the side of the platform built for three, he should have taken the committee of arrangements around the corner and introduced them to Schwenkville "boots," and called it square.

President Roosevelt has scored another important point against the men in his own party who oppose his policy. It is well known that he has a strong desire for tariff revision and reciprocity, but his recommendations along this line have been treated with contempt by the Republican majority in Congress. The standpatters in that body have been determined that there shall be no lowering of the tariff wall anywhere, and that the only change shall be in the way of raising it. But now come the President and the Panama canal commission with a decision to throw open the contracts for the supplies for that work to the competition of the world. Economy is the excuse, and a good one it is, but the decision will sorely disturb the standpatters. They may also see in it an earnest of what may be expected from the President in the tariff and reciprocity line after he disposes of the railroad rate question.

Mr. William J. Bryan made his debut as a preacher last Sunday, filling the pulpit at the Normal Methodist Church, at Lincoln, Neb., his home. Of course there was a large crowd in attendance. No complaint appears that the men do not attend church when Bryan preaches, or the the women either, for that matter. Mr. Bryan took for his text a verse from the Sermon on the Mount, that "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God," and the main point presented was that religion consisted more in kindness to and consideration for fellow-men, more in charity for others and in personal purity than in dogma, ceremony or creed. He deplored the tendency to higher criticism of the scriptures and the rejection of parts because one could not understand. Then he reverted to one of his familiar doctrines, that no man could command real success in the world without he possessed an ideal that dominated his life and conduct and abjured selfishness and low conceptions of duty.

Postmaster General Cortelyou has written a circular letter to all postmasters and employes of the Post Office Department, reminding them that they are forbidden by law to participate actively in political contests.

Extracts from the Civil Service laws and from letters of the President bearing upon the subject are quoted.

The document is the direct result of the recent controversy over the political activity of the postmaster at Louisville, and is intended as an answer to inquiries from Senator Penrose regarding the availability of postmasters as officers of county and other conventions.

If this order is enforced there will be numerous changes in all classes of postmasters. But this order, like many others, will be applied only to cases where the Republican party will be strengthened by the application.

George L. Miller, of Clearfield county, according to newspaper reports, has his eye on the senatorship. He was an aspirant for the Republican nomination for that office at the time W. A. Osborne was placed on the Republican ticket against Senator Heinle. Mr. Miller is shaking hands candidate-style, and hopes to be recognized by the Republicans in the Clearfield-Centre-Clinton senatorial district.

Dr. Mitterling Installed.

The Daily Citizen, published at Centreville, Iowa, in its issue of May 12, had this to say of Dr. D. J. Mitterling formerly of Potter township;

A good-sized audience was out to the First Presbyterian church last evening to attend the exercise connected with the formal installation as pastor of the church of Dr. D. J. Mitterling, A. M., Ph. D., formerly of Petersburg, Illinois.

Dr. D. J. Mitterling, has been a here long enough to assure his popularity with the congregation before whom he ministers. His sermons always have a solidity of thought that impresses the hearer with the broad scope of the mind that created them, and yet his style is so easy and his diction so simple and beautiful that it is a pleasure to listen to his discourses.

The Wabash Again.

The building of the Wabash railroad from Pittsburg east to the seashore is again assured. The Philipsburg Journal states that the Wabash railroad company has rented from Dr. J. W. Dunwiddie, of that place, a house owned by him at the head of Bear Run, about three miles southeast of Sandy Ridge, which they expect to use for the occupancy of a corps of engineers which will shortly be put to work in that section.

This is the line that passes through the southern section of Centre county, along Gatesburg, Pine Grove Mills, Boalsburg, Tusseyville, Potters Mills, through Georges Valley, south of Spring Mills and Coburn, over Paddy Mountain, etc.

NEWS OF 1870—A DOUBLE HANGING.

MARCH 11.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Old Fort and Youngmanstown turnpike was a lively affair at Penn Hall, where they met to elect officers for the year. The stockholders were divided for and against the erection of a toll gate east of the Old Fort. The gate forces were lead by John C. Motz, with Judge Hosterman as his main support; the other faction was headed by R. H. Duncan with James P. Coburn as his chief lieutenant. The Motz element won out, and elected all directors favorable to a gate at that point. The directors chosen were: Robert Foster, Benjamin F. Troxel, David Krape, Michael Harper. [The new gate was erected and toll was first taken about March 25.]

An account of a double execution, that took place in Huntingdon, appears in the issue of March 18th. The men hanged were Germans, named Aibert Von Bodenberg and Gotlieb Von Bohner. Their crime was the killing of a woman. The executioner was Sheriff Neely. Both men were hanged at once. Bodenberg read a statement from the scaffold in which he declared that he had no hand in the murder, and implored Bohner to tell the truth. After Bodenberg got through reading his statement, Bohner made a remark charging Bodenberg with an equal hand in the murder, when the latter replied, vehemently, "Shem dich doch; shem dich doch." (Shame on you; shame on you.) Bodenberg died comparatively easy in eleven minutes. Bohner struggled fearfully fifteen minutes.

The account further says that fully four thousand people gathered in Huntingdon, and four hundred within the jail yard witnessed the execution. The hotels and restaurants were ordered closed until after the hanging.

The sheriff mounted the steps of the platform and admonished the people assembled in the prison yard to observe order and decency. He said; "Let the rowdies and drunken men outside create disturbance and make noise, but we must carry out the intent of the law as becomes a law abiding Christian people."

Outside the prison walls a high platform was erected, the four hundred seats on which sold for $2.00 to $2.50 each.

An incident that occurred in June, 1870, when Robinson's show exhibited in Middletown, Missouri, will be of interest to readers who attended the show at Bellefonte Monday. In the parade a band was perched on the top of the lions' cage, and at the time mentioned the roof of the cage gave way, precipitating the musicians to the bottom of the cage. The lions fell upon their prey with all the ferocity of lions in the jungles, and before aid came three of the members of the band had been torn to pieces, and four were fearfully lacerated.

Prof. Charles White, the lion tamer, entered the cage, which was surrounded by men armed with pointed bars and revolvers, and succeeded in removing the wounded and dead. While in the act of gathering up arms and limbs, the mammoth lion, Nero, sprang upon him and fastened his teeth and claws into Mr. White's neck and shoulders, lacerating him in a horrible manner. The contents of four Colt's navy revolvers were poured into the ferocious beast, and it fell dead.

Prof. White refused to leave the cage until he had gathered every vestige of the dead into a sheet.

Married—February 15, James Grove, of Gregg township, and Miss Rachael Showalter, of Laurelton . . . March 8, Samuel Kreamer, of Effingham county, Illinois, and Miss Susan Neidigh, of Haines township . . . March 8, Daniel Geary, of Harris township, and Miss Sarah Ellen Hull, of Aaronsburg . . . March 22, William B. Krape and Miss Mary Jane McClintic, both of Gregg township . . . March 24, George Grenoble, of Gregg township, and Joanna Baney, of Madisonburg . . . March 31, Adam Luse, of Penn township, and Miss Elizabeth Gettig, of Gregg township . . . April 14, George H. Reeser and Miss Elizabeth B. Stover, both of Haines township. . . . October 5, D. F. Luse, of Centre Hall, and Miss Sallie Orndorf, of Centre Hill . . . June 12, J. S. Housman, of Lewistown, and Miss Susan Moyer, of Potter township.

Deaths—March 5, Mrs. Elizabeth Hubler, widow of George Hubler, of Haines township, aged 86 years, 5 months . . . March 14, near Pine Grove Mills, William Musser, aged about 67 years . . . March 10, near Logansville, George Gramley, aged about 55 years . . . April 4, Major John Neff, of Centre Hall, aged 79 years. He was born in Lancaster county, but lived in and about Centre Hall for a period of 65 or 70 years. He was the father of seventeen children, fourteen of whom survived him. Mr. Neff was one of the leading citizens of Potter township . . . April 1, in Gregg township, Catharine, consort of Daniel Lose, aged 57 years. . . . At Centre Hall, April 1, John Heinle, aged 29 years. He was an employe in the Reporter office. He was a volunteer in the civil war, and lost one of his legs by being struck with a cannon ball in the battle of Cold Harbor. (Mr. Heinle was the writer's first Sabbath school teacher, and it has been his custom, every spring for some years, to place flowers on Mr. Heinle's grave.) . . . May 15, in Potter township, Christiana, consort of Amos Parker, aged 47 years . . . May 18, in Potter township, Daniel Colyer, aged 60 years . . . June 10, in Millheim, David Shreffler, aged 81 years.

The mercantile firm of Wasson & Co. dissolved partnership. The store was continued by J. B. Solt, a member of the firm.

Jesse Mauk, an aged and respected citizen of Millheim, was found dead in his stable March 17. He had gone to the stable in apparently good health.

Five new houses are in course of construction in Centre Hall, and are being erected by James Herring [the house owned by Capt. Boal], William Shoop [now occupied by J. A. Reesman], George Harpster [now owned and occupied by Mrs. Mary Ross], Samuel Working [the house now occupied by John Emerick], and Adam Nearhood, at the foot of Nittany Mountain.

MARCH 25.—Rev. Porr, of Rebersburg, accepted a call from a Lutheran charge at Myerstown, Lebanon county.

Ezra Spangler, of Potter township, moved to Joliet, Illinois.

C. D. Runkle sold his property, at the lower end of town, to Mr. Ruble, of Mifflin county. [The property is now owned and occupied by Mrs. Mary Rearick. Note that the location is designated "at the lower end of town."]

Mr. Krom, one of the proprietors of the Brockerhoff House, leased the Potters Mills hotel, and placed the same in charge of one of his clerks.

Dr. William F. River, left Pine Grove Mills for Berrien Springs, Michigan, where he expects to locate.

[There were fifty-five applicants for liquor licenses in 1870, against forty-seven in 1905.]

William Keller, a resident of Potter township, died Sunday morning, April 24. His age was fifty-eight years. At the time of his death he was a member of the board of county commissioners. His funeral was one of the largest witnessed in Centre Hall for many years. S. F. Foster, of Potter township was appointed to succeed him as commissioner.

Beginning of May, Bellefonte held its first election after being divided into wards—1st and 2nd. J. P. Gephart, Democrat, was elected a justice.

Thursday, May 26, the barn of Rev. P. S. Fisher, in Gregg township was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. Isaac Reish was the tenant. His loss was considerable, and had no insurance.

An important railroad meeting was held in Centre Hall beginning of May. The townships of Harris, Potter, Gregg, Haines and Penn were asked to raise $200,000 toward the construction of the same. The amount was almost raised, as indicated:

Harris	$40000
Potter	40000
Gregg	49800
Haines	25200
Penn	25000—$180,000

The name of the Houserville post office was changed to Lemont and the office moved to the end of the mountain. William Dale was made postmaster. [Note is made of the fact that the people about Houserville were very much dissatisfied and made complaint.]

LOCALS.

Chickens roosted high—in Centre Hall—beginning of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Harter, of Millheim, have gone to Loren, Illinois, where they will make their future home.

Merchant W. H. Kreamer and wife, of Centre Hall, drove to Rebersburg, last week and spent a day pleasantly among friends and relatives.

Grange Festival.

Progress Grange will hold its annual June festival in Grange Arcadia Saturday evening, June 17th.

Dr. Laurie Resigns.

Dr. William Laurie resigned as pastor of the Bellefonte Presbyterian church. The resignation will take effect December, next.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS.

Miss Grace Smith was in Lewisburg over Sunday.

The news of 1870, in this issue, is of unusual interest.

The Grange library will be open to the public every Saturday evening from 7 to 8 o'clock.

Mr. Seabold placed pianos in the homes of Dame Luse, near Centre Hill, and W. A. Sandoe, Centre Hall.

The announcement of John L. Dunlap, of Spring township, for Commissioner appears in another column of this issue.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Krape and daughter Edna, of Reedsville, last week visited Mrs. Krape's parents, in this place.

Charles D. Emerick, of Wilmerding, was home for a few days last week. He is night ticket agent at that place, on the P. R. R.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Lutz, of near Centre Hall, Saturday went to Houserville, to visit Mrs. Uriah Stover, mother of Mrs. Lutz.

With the extension of the telephone to Wolf's Store, the extreme eastern point in Brush Valley, the whole of Centre county is covered by telephone.

Before taking his new field of labor, Rev. George E. Limbert for a short time visited friends and relatives in Miles township. His new charge is in Altoona.

Green Decker, of Flasher, North Dakota, sends the Reporter a letter written by his neighbor which is conclusive evidence that that section of the Northwest is all right.

Deputy recorder James Corl walked around as proud as a peacock the latter part of last week, all because on Thursday his wife presented him with No. 6, says the Watchman.

The Herrick Seed Company, of Rochester, N. Y., want an agent to canvass this section. This Company is all right. Their references are the best. Any one out of work write them for terms at once.

C. C. Coble, of Oak Hall Station, was an early Monday morning caller. Mr. Cobble, when not engaged in day's work, made a number of useful articles for the good housewife and offers the same for sale.

Mr. and Mrs. Abner W. Alexander, Mrs. Mary Odenkirk and Mrs. James Alexander drove to Lewistown, last week, to visit friends, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. Porter W. Odenkirk and Miss Alda Sankey.

The Bellefonte correspondent to the North American is the star liar of Central Pennsylvania. If any newspaper man can spin a yarn to match his account of the "Indian Death Dance" on Nittany Mountain he is entitled to a chromo.

From the Mifflinburg Times the following is taken: Samuel Wolfe and Mrs. T. M. Shively and little daughter, Mary, went to Centre county on Wednesday, to visit friends at Centre Hall, Tusseyville, and other points thereabouts.

It may be news to the delegates to the Centre County Sabbath School Convention to be held at Millheim, next week, that the second convention was held in Centre Hall, June 7, 1870, in the Reformed church. General James A. Beaver was president.

Messrs. Wm. H. Lee and John Bedlyon, of Colyer, were callers Saturday morning. The latter is one of the many men from the South side of Potter who have found employment at Burnham. He is working in the yards, and was home for a few days.

Workmen are digging, just below the Engineering Building at Pennsylvania State College, the foundations for two handsome pillars which Prof. Reber secured from the World's Fair Commission at St. Louis. When completed, they will add greatly to the appearance of the avenue.

The June number of the Woman's Home Companion is beautifully illustrated, from its beautiful de Longpre cover to the very last page. No more remarkable series of pictures has appeared for many a month than is given to illustrate "The Living Sacrifice of the Carmelite Nun."

James H. Smetzler, of Centre Hall, who has rounded out his twenty-eighth years' services with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, Monday returned from Harvey's Lake, where the eighth annual meeting of the Penn. R. R. Veterans Association was held. It requires twenty-one years service with the company before admission to the association can be gained, which indicates that those who attended this gathering were neither "fillies" in years, nor in point of service. Mr. Smetzler was highly pleased with his trip, and hopes to repeat it in years to come.

RUSSIANS MEET REPULSE

Preliminaries For the Next Big Battle on Land.

GENERAL ADVANCE OF THE JAPANESE.

Russians Attack Oyama's Three Advancing Columns, but Are Driven Back—Their Losses Are Heaviest North of Fakumen, Where the Japs' Shell Fire Mows Them Down.

Tokio (By Cable).—Advices from Manchuria plainly show that the preliminaries are in progress for another mighty struggle between the two great armies.

The Russians occupy a line 42 miles long, from Yehhoching to Hsidosien, by way of Supingchien, where they have good defensive positions, and are strongly entrenched. The Japanese are advancing in three columns from Kaiyuan, Changtufu and Fakumen.

In the Eastern field the Russians who retreated from Tunghua and Hsingking rallied at Wanghaothe, 40 miles north of Tunghua, but subsequently withdrew to the north, their advanced position being now at Liuhochen, 15 miles north of Wangkaote.

Their main position is at Hailungching, where General Paterlioff commands.

An official report issued by the War Department shows that the Russian reconnaisances on the morning of Thursday included simultaneous attacks upon all three of the Japanese columns advancing from Fakumen, Changtufu and Kaiyuan. The most determined attack was made at Nanchingtsu, 10 miles north of Kaiyuan.

All the attacks were repulsed. The Russian losses were heaviest north of Kakumen, where the Japanese shell fire severely punished the attacking force. The Japanese casualties were scattering and slight.

Linevitch Ready to Accept Battle.

Gunshu Pass (108 miles north of Tie Pass), Manchuria (By Cable).—A general engagement is imminent. Field Marshal Oyama is deploying heavy forces against General Linevitch's left, and is contracting his troops along the center, but his base is opposite the Russian right.

It is not yet clear which wing is making a demonstration and which will deliver the main blow. It is evident from Linevitch's preparations that he intends to accept a decisive battle.

St. Petersburg (By Cable).—The War Office confirms the report from Gunshu Pass that Field Marshal Oyama is on the eve of taking the general offensive, and no doubt is entertained here that General Linevitch will accept battle in his present positions.

The general staff believes Oyama's advance was precipitated by the doubt regarding the issue of the coming naval battle between Admirals Rojestvensky and Togo. With an unbeaten army in front of him, Oyama's position might be critical if his communications with Japan were interrupted, even temporarily.

Russia and Contraband.

St. Petersburg (By Cable).—The Superior Admiralty Court has decided the appeal in the case of the British steamer Calchas, captured by the Vladivostok squadron, overruling Admiral Jessen's protest against the decision of the Vladivostok court ordering her release. Admiral Jessen contended that the steamer was subject to confiscation, on the ground that she carried Japanese dispatches.

At the same time the Superior Court decided that the detention of the Calchas was legal, thus barring any claim for damages on the ground of illegal detention. Following the precedent set in the case of the German steamer Arabia, confiscated by the Vladivostok prize court, which recognized the American doctrine that foodstuffs are conditional contraband, the court ordered the release of 350,000 pounds of flour, in which Americans, principally residing on the Pacific Coast, are interested, and sustained the confiscation of 36 bales of cotton and 97 bales of timber, the latter decision being a rejection of Secretary Hay's conditional contraband so as to include all articles of dual use. The Vladivostok prize court has not yet passed on the machinery on board the Calchas.

ROBBED BANK TO SAVE SON.

Pathetic Confession of Employe of a Des Moines Bank.

Des Moines Iowa (Special).—Carl M. Spencer, a former trusted employe of the Des Moines National Bank, was indicted by the Federal grand jury on a charge of embezzlement and for alleged fraudulent entries in the bank's books. The amount of Spencer's alleged shortage will not exceed $5,000.

There is a pathetic story in connection with Spencer's confession, which he made prior to the indictment. For many years annually he had been taking an invalid son East for medical treatment. He had been unable to get the expenses incurred by the medical attention, and to save the boy's life he took money from his employer.

Another clerk suspected of the theft and subsequently dismissed from the bank is completely exonerated by Spencer's confession.

Eight Killed in a Collision.

Louisville, Ky. (Special).—Eight men were killed and four injured in a freight collision near Echols, Ky.

Robbers Missed $500,000.

San Francisco (Special).—An attempt to rob the stamp safe at the San Francisco Postoffice was frustrated by Watchman William O'Connell, who saw one of the burglars drilling the safe. The burglars took alarm and escaped with only $1,400 worth of stamps found outside the safe. The safe contained $14,000 in stamps and much money, while in the cashier's room, adjoining the stamp department, was a large safe which contained nearly $500,000.

ANNULS ASPHALT GRANT

The Venezuelan Court Defies United States.

MAY NOW SELL THE PROPERTY.

This Government Now Expected to Take Prompt Action and Insist Upon Submission of the Controversy to Arbitration—Representatives of the Asphalt Company Say They Have Fulfilled Their Contract.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—The decision of the High Federal Court of Venezuela, the highest judicial tribunal in that country, made at Caracas, annuling the concession of the New York and Bermudez Asphalt Company, and ordering that company to pay the government damages sustained by the alleged complicity of the company in the Matos revolution, will probably bring quick results from the United States government, which has been waiting to take action only until the case has been finally disposed of in the Venezuelan courts. In response to the various demands of the State Department, whose officials hold that there has been a denial of justice to the asphalt company, President Castro has always replied that he would not arbitrate anything until the case had passed through his courts in the proper manner.

Holding the position it does, it is not likely that this government will engage in controversy with President Castro much longer. It is openly asserted that the patience of President Roosevelt and other officials of the government has long been exhausted at the attitude of the Venezuelan executive, and there is every possibility of a renewal of demands upon him. It is unlikely, however, that any action will be taken until the present phase of Venezuelan affairs, the Bowen-Loomis case, has been settled.

The first step to be taken will be an investigation of the merits of the case just decided by the High Federal Court. If it is found that there has been a denial of justice, and this is expected by government officials here, who have no faith in Venezuelan courts and who think that Castro runs them to suit himself, representations will be at once made to President Castro. These, it is said, will consist in a renewal of the demand for arbitration by a tribunal.

The last communication in the Venezuelan government concerning the asphalt case was a demand for arbitration with threat of forcible action. The government here has done nothing to carry out the threat implied in this communication, which amounted to an ultimatum. Since then the State Department has merely been waiting for a decision of the federal court at Caracas, waiting to see what the outcome would be, and to then renew representations when President Castro would have no excuse for prolonging the negotiations. The State Department has had no confirmation or details of the decision of the high federal court, but it is expected that Mr. Hutchinson, charge d'affaires of the American Legation at Caracas, will make a report immediately.

FORT WORTH STRUCK BY TORNADO.

One Man Killed and Much Damage Done—Buildings Wrecked.

Fort Worth, Tex. (Special).—A heavy windstorm, blowing at the rate of 70 miles an hour, struck this city from the southwest at 6.30 o'clock P. M. Part of the west wall of the Texas an Pacific station was blown in and John Young, a train dispatcher, killed.

The storm was most severe west of the city, and all telephone and telegraph wires in that direction are down.

A passenger on a Texas and Pacific train from the West reports that the town of Mineral Wells was partly blown away.

One church belonging to the African Methodist Episcopal Church here was demolished. Many business buildings lost their roofs, including the First National Bank Building, a seven-story structure.

The Baptist and the Episcopalian churches in North Fort Worth were partly wrecked, while the roofs of the Grand Hotel, in East Weatherford street, and of the Johnson House, in West Bluff street, were torn away. Fifty dwellings in various parts of the city were damaged. The Second Ward School building was partly wrecked.

The storm extended as far east as Terrell, but did no particular damage at that point. Handley seven miles east of Fort Worth, suffered much property damage.

Shot and Killed His Father.

Bellport, R. I. (Special).—Joseph O'Connell, a boy, shot his father, Thomas O'Connell, through the heart. The boy claims that he shot his father in self-defense. He has not been arrested. Joseph and his father engaged in a fierce quarrel and the latter attacked Joseph with an axe. The son was severely gashed and is seriously injured. The father died almost instantly.

Moro Chief Killed.

Manila (By Cable).—News has been received that Pala, the outlaw Moro chief, who has been pursued the past two weeks on the island of Jolo by troops under the command of Gen. Leonard Wood, has been killed. His few surviving followers are being trailed by the troops. At the beginning of the uprising Pala was reported to have a following of 600 well-armed men, most of whom have been killed.

Women Accused as Coiners.

Philadelphia (Special).—Secret-service operatives arrested three women and a man who are charged with counterfeiting silver coins. Mrs. Rose Weinstein, Bessie, her daughter, and Charles Nabesky were captured in the Weinstein home and Kate Malenkoff was arrested in her own home, several blocks away. In both places were found many spurious half-dollars, quarters and dimes, besides the paraphernalia for manufacturing the money.

CHINA TO RETALIATE.

Proposes to Boycott American Goods Hereafter.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—China will oppose to Chinese exclusion its boycott of American goods. This was announced officially by the Chinese Legation here. Asked what was meant by the action of China in deciding not to purchase American goods, the Chinese Minister said:

"It means business. China will not buy a yard of American goods while America violates her treaty obligations by excluding or deporting Chinese."

The Chinese diplomat explained that the treaty of 1868 between China and America gave full freedom of intercourse. Chinese under that treaty could come to America, and America could trade with China.

This treaty was modified by the treaty of 1880, which provided that the United States and China might make an agreement excluding Chinese laborers. This was done in 1894 by a treaty limited to 10 years, which treaty expired last year. The expiration of this treaty, the Chinese diplomat asserts, places the two countries in the position in which they were placed by the treaty of 1880. Every Chinaman excluded or deported is excluded or deported in violation of the treaty obligations of the United States to China. The only way in which there can be such exclusion, the Chinese hold, is by treaty providing for it. No such treaty is now in force.

Not only will China boycott American goods, the diplomat says, but it is collecting data to make a basis for claims for indemnity of the exclusion and deporting of Chinamen contrary to treaty rights.

SAYS SHE BORROWED $900,000.

Mrs. Chadwick Tells About Some of Her Financial Operations.

Cleveland (Special).—Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick made a statement concerning her affairs, in which she told of the beginning of her financial troubles.

"Since January 1, 1901, I have had $3,210,000. Of this amount I borrowed not over $900,000, the remainder coming from a trust fund and some sales.

"In April or May, 1901, I owed only $53,000. I paid that debt. I was then induced to make an investment which called for almost $400,000. I took no security for this investment, and the transaction, so far as I am concerned, never materialized. The investment was made upon the advice of a friend."

After relating her experiences while abroad, during which time her husband and her niece were ill for several months, Mrs. Chadwick says:

"Early in the month of February, 1902, after my return home I was informed that my investment was a loss and that I was in debt $400,000. Besides that sum there was an additional loss which I had incured of $200,000. In order to meet these obligations I made large loans, for which I paid heavy commissions.

"I have borrowed in all $900,000. I obtained $175,000 on my own note. A loan of $240,000 was secured by me on the indorsement of a prominent New Yorker. The other $400,000 I have mentioned before.

"I have been offered bail by a prominent Clevelander, who wishes his name kept secret. I shall not accept freedom on such a condition. The person who makes the offer is wealthy'."

A Monument at Newbern.

Newbern, N. C. (Special).—With impressive ceremonies and in the presence of many people there was unveiled in the Newbern National Cemetery a monument commemorating the valor of the Ninth New Jersey Volunteer Infantry in the Civil War. JOHANN HOCH GUILTY

Chicago Jury Recommends the Death Penalty.

THE PRISONER STOOD IN A STUPOR.

End of the Trial of the German Who Is Accused of Having Married Forty Women, Many of Whom Died Under Suspicious Circumstances—His Crime Was Characterized as Artistic Assassination.

Chicago, (Special).—Johann Hoch, who by his own confession is a polygamist and who is charged by the police with having married at least 40 women in the last 15 years, was found guilty of murdering the next to his last wife, Marie Welcker-Hoch, and the death sentence was recommended by the jury in Judge Kersten's court.

Hoch had been married to Mrs. Welcker only a short time when she took suddenly sick and died. He then formed an alliance with the sister of the dead woman and, securing the sister's money, fled from Chicago. This Mrs. Hoch told the police that Hoch had poisoned her sister and a search for Hoch was begun. He was found two weeks later in New York and brought back to Chicago and confronted by several alleged wives. During the trial expert testimony was offered by the State that Hoch had poisoned the woman by administering arsenic.

The verdict was reached in less than half an hour. Three ballots were taken. The first ballot was unanimous at to Hoch's guilt and then a ballot followed as to the punishment to be inflicted. This ballot showed 10 in favor of the death penalty and two for life imprisonment. A third ballot resulted in the 12 jurymen voting for the death penalty.

"Well, I guess it's all off with John," groaned Hoch as the verdict was read in court. He was greatly affected. He had sat in a stooping position, but when the word "death" was read he turned pale, stared hopelessly at the jurors and then sank limp in his chair.

Hoch's attorneys will ask for a new trial, although the condemned man declared he was ready to die and would be better satisfied if they did not make an effort to save him.

"I wish they would hang me tonight, now that I have been found guilty," declared Hoch. I am not afraid to die, and the sooner it is over with the better."

Hoch expressed great surprise at the finding of the jury and declared that the jurors did not take time to consider the evidence.

"The evidence was all circumstancial," he said, "and my life was 'guessed' away by the jury, which did not give sufficient consideration to the testimony offered."

Hoch denied positively that he had murdered a number of wives, as has been alleged, and displayed some bitterness in speaking of the matter.

"Such talk is foolish," he said. "The reports have been spread that I am a modern 'Bluebeard.' This is untrue. All that can be said against me is that I have committed bigamy. As to the talk that I had nearly a dozen wives, it is nonsense, as are the stories that I made away with them. There was no evidence that I had another sweetheart and wanted to get rid of the woman I am accused of poisoning. I spent money to get her, but this part of the evidence was ignored by the jurors."

Hoch said he preferred the death penalty to life imprisonment. He then commenced to whistle a lively air as he returned to his cell.

MR. MORTON TO QUIT JULY 1.

Considering Four Offers to Go Into Private Business.

Washington, (Special).—Secretary of the Navy Morton desires to leave public life as soon as possible, and by July 1 he will have relinquished his present post to some other man and will in all probability have gone to Europe for a brief stay.

Mr. Morton is now weighing the respective advantages of at least four important position in business life which have been offered to him. Not all of these are railroad positions.

Secretary Metcalf is expected to succeed him, and it is reported that if Mr. Metcalf does not get the Navy post he will in all probability retire from public life. He is not a wealthy man.

Secretary Morton replied to the communication received by him from the Humane Society of the City of Galveston, Texas, in which they call attention to the alleged inhumane treatment of the crew of the cruiser Galveston during the recent stay of that ship at Galveston. Mr. Morton says that the facts related "constitute the most ample excuse for any unlawful action which any commanding officer of a naval vessel might take to preserve order and discipline."

Pronounced a Real Durer.

Heidelberg, (By Cable).—A life-size bust picture by Albrecht Durer of the Saviour crowned with thorns has been found in the house of an obscure resident of Offenburg. The canvas bears Durer's monogram and the date 1524. Emperor William, during his recent visit to Karlsruhe, went with the Grand Duke of Baden to see the picture. Prof. Hans Thoma, the artist and director of the Hall of Art at Karlsruhe, is one of those who pronounce the picture to be a genuine Durer.

Captain Hayson Murdered.

Manila, (By Cable).—Capt. Hayson, of the constabulary, who was stationed at Seassi, has been shot and killed by his own Moro sentinel. The motive for the murder is not known.

Ambush Germans in Africa.

Berlin, (By Cable).—Captain von Rappard's company, while marching to attack Chief Frederick in German Southwest Africa, was ambushed on May 3 at the junction of the Kutip and Kuums rivers by Chief Frederick with 300 men. Six Germans were killed and six wounded, among them being Captain von Rappard, who was severely hurt. Capt. Baum Gaertel, according to an official telegram, relieved Captain von Rappard by a forced march of 46 hours and drove off the natives.

RUSSIANS' LOSSES 89,000.

The Figures Cover Battle and Retreat From Mukden.

Gunshu, Pass, Manchuria, (By Cable).—Some 10 weeks have passed since the last echoes of the titanic Mukden combat have died away, but the discussions and tales of those hard days of fighting and retreat have not lessened, but on the contrary, grow louder and louder. Here in the army the newspaper articles and telegrams portraying a disastrous rout of the Russians were read with amazement and indignation. The reality was as follows:

The attack on the Russian positions by the Japanese began February 19. The first Manchurian army and parts of the Third Army repulsed all attacks, and as to the character of this repulse the best proof is the fact that on March 7, after the repulse of the last attack on the Gaotu Pass, the Japanese in complete disorder, abandoning on their bivouacs many objects, ammunition, cartridges, conserves and rice, retired almost four miles. The same thing took place on the remainder of the front of the first army. The second Manchurian army, repulsing all the desperate attacks on the western front, was unable, however, to throw back the Japanese forces, which were encircling Mukden from the north.

This success of the Japanese compelled the Russians to withdraw the first and third armies to the fortified positions on the line of the Hun River. On March 9 the Japanese succeeded in breaking through the Russian position on the Hun River, which, together with the armies of Nogi advancing to the railroad from the west and with Oku's assistance, forced the commander to give the order to all three armies to retreat to Tie Pass. In spite of the extremely difficult circumstances the retirement of the troops from the advanced position took place in good order. The retreat was rendered more difficult by the panic in the wagon trains.

One of the rear guards, under command of Major General Ganefield, and a few battalions, losing the direction which had been given them for the retreat, were surrounded, and after a furious fight, succeeded in partly breaking through, with heavy losses. In this way began the sudden confusion, which became a panic, among the wagon trains, communicating partly to those batteries and parks which, owing to the duststorm, lost their way and got between the wagons. The troops of the line were almost untouched by the panic, and retired fighting steadily, defending successive positions, while the rear guard had to repulse the Japanese with the bayonet. Under the protection of these slowly retreating, bleeding and worn-out soldiers, work on the railway was continued until night of March 11, and all the rolling stock and all the wounded were gotten away, with the exception of 400 especially seriously wounded, who were left in several hospitals in Mukden, together with 450 wounded Japanese.

The Russian losses for the whole period of the fighting from February 19 to March consisted of killed, wounded and missing as follows:

Two generals, both severely wounded and now both prisoners.

Staff and other officers, 1,985.

Privates, 87,677.

Dividing the latter figure into classes there would be in round figures about 55,000 wounded gathered up, 15,000 killed, 7,000 to 8,000 taken prisoner and 10,000 to 12,000 left on the field and missing. Of the last two classes the number of those taken prisoners must be calculated at not more than 5,000 or 6,000. Of guns the Russians lost 33, including 26 quick-firers. As to the siege artillery, every gun of it, with the ammunition, was sent north two days before the retreat began.

The blow was a very heavy one, and the armies passed through a period of severe trial, increased by the warped accounts which have found their way into the foreign press. The information concerning the losses given above was received by the Associated Press correspondent from the staff of the new commander-in-chief and has the authorization of the chief of staff, General Karkevitch.

INSANE MAN'S CRIME.

Killed His Godmother, Who, He Said, Had Bewitched Him.

Detroit, Mich., (Special).—Walking up to Patrolman Dacey on the street here at noon, Frank Lesner, aged 26, a native of Trenton, told him that he had murdered his godmother, Mrs. Michael Hammernick, in her home, at Trenton, and inquried the way to the station, where he could take a train back to his work in the dairy at the Asylum for Criminal Insane at Ionia. Lesner, who is evidently mentally irresponsible, told the officer that Mrs. Hammernick had bewitched him and his whole family, and for that reason he had come from Ionia for the express purpose of killing her. Mrs. Hammernick was found dead in bed by her husband when he returned to their home, in Trenton, from a neighbor's. There were five bullet wounds in her body and her head was crushed by a blow from a chair.

Shot in a Public Garden.

Ufa, Russia, (By Cable).—Major-General Sokolovsky, Governor-General of the Province of Ufa, was fired at several times and severely wounded in the public garden during an entertainment. His assailant disappeared. General Sokolovsky's life is despaired of, though he retains consciousness. Vice-Governor Bogdanovitch has taken over the administration of the province.

How sleep the brave, who sink to rest
By all their country's wishes blest:
When Spring, with dewy fingers cold,
Returns to deck their hallowed mould,
She there shall dress a sweeter sod
Than Fancy's feet have ever trod.

By fairy hands their knell is rung,
By forms unseen their dirge is sung:
There Honour comes, a pilgrim gray,
To bless the turf that wraps their clay;
And Freedom shall awhile repair
To dwell a weeping hermit there.

Here is a Genuine Bargain
The Reliable Hawthorne
Cream Separators

Nobody—not even a manufacturer—ever made prices so low on Standard High Grade Separators as we are quoting now.

Our No. 1 Hawthorne Cream Separator, with a capacity of 250 lbs. of milk an hour, guaranteed in every way, we now sell you at $36.00. It is superior to any other make.

Our No. 2 Hawthorne, capacity 350 lbs. of milk an hour, we sell at $45.00. If it does not satisfy you, send it back.

And our No. 3 Hawthorne, capacity 500 lbs. of milk an hour, for $51 50.

Either size will be sent you on approval and for you to test and try, and if it does not prove to be the very best cream separator you ever heard of, you can return it at our expense, and not be out one penny.

We have sold thousands of Hawthorne Cream Separators—at higher prices than we now offer them—and all have given perfect satisfaction.

You will find former prices at which we have been selling Hawthornes on page 77 of our No. 73 Catalogue, as follows: No. 1, $48.75 (now $36.00); No. 2, $63.75 (now $45.00); No. 3, $75.00 (now $51.50). We have not changed them or cheapened them in quality in any way in order to reduce the price, but have placed a very large order in anticipation of your wants, and in buying by the thousands at one time, have secured a concession in price, which we give you.

The Hawthorne is identical with the cream separator that received the Gold Medal at the St. Louis Exposition last year, in competition with the world. The expert judges acknowledged it to be the best skimmer in the world; easily cleaned; sure to be sweet; safe, and easy to operate. Our dairy manager has made tests with the Hawthorne that show it to leave less than one one-hundredth of one per cent of butter fat in the skim milk in December, and even do better than this during the summer. It will skim closer than any other separator at any price, and is, in reality, the same separator, only sold by us under another name, that is usually sold for $65.00 (for No. 1), $85.00 (for No. 2), and $100.00 (for No. 3).

We will gladly send you a full description of the Hawthorne; or we will send you for free examination either size you desire, without advance deposit of any kind, if you follow our directions in "Paragraph 3" on page 3 of our No. 73 Catalogue. But the best plan is to send the cash with your order, get and use the separator, and then decide as to its merits. If you'll take your money back for it, after you've used it, you can have it for the asking.

Now we have made it possible for everyone to own a perfect cream separator. There is no excuse for your doing without, now, or for putting up with an inferior machine any longer. Send in your order today and have the separator to use at once. 10

Melodies and Mysteries

Couldst thou know what the blithe bird pipeth,
High in the morning air?
Wouldst thou know what the bright steam singeth,
Rippling o'er pebbles bare?
Sorrow the mystery shall teach thee,
And the words declare.

Wouldst thou find in the rose's blossom
More than thy fellows find?
More in the fragrance of the lily
Than odor on the wind?
Love Nature and her smallest atoms
Shall whisper to thy mind.

Wouldst thou know what the moon discourseth
To the docile sea?
Wouldst hear the echoes of the music
Of the far infinity?
Sorrow shall ope the founts of knowledge,
And heaven shall sing to thee.

Wouldst thou see through the riddle of Being
Further than others can?
Sorrow shall give thine eyes new luster
To simplify the plan;
And love of God and thy kind shall aid thee
To end what it began.

To Love and Sorrow all Nature speaketh;
If the riddle be read,
They the best can see through darkness
Each divergent thread
Of its mazy texture, and discover
Whence the ravel spread.

Love and Sorrow are sympathetic
With the earth and skies;
Their touch from the harp of Nature bringeth
The hidden melodies;
To them the eternal chords forever
Vibrate in harmonies.

Took Payment in Lives

Chief among the stock owners was John Chisholm, whose brand was on thousands of range cattle. Billy worked for Chisholm a short time, but soon he had his inevitable quarrel with his employer. It was over a question of wages, Billy claiming that Chisholm had not squared their account. Only the fact that Chisholm was surrounded by a guard of hard-fighting cowboys, with reputations as "killers," kept him from assassination when he and the young desperado parted. As it was, Billy managed finally to exact a terrible penalty from Chisholm. It is more than likely that the Kid swore his vendetta against Chisholm and other cattle owners simply as a matter of course instead of a punctilious affair of principle.

Billy would naturally take sides with the rustlers, who were making life miserable for honest men in Lincoln county. He soon became a leader of the desperate crew and was in the thick of many of the deadly encounters that took place during the course of the "war." It is estimated that he put a round dozen of notches on his gun handle during this fiercest of range feuds, every notch representing a human life. Two of his victims were a sheriff and his deputy, who had driven him and part of his gang into an adobe house.

One day the Kid turned up at one of the Chisholm cow camps. He had not forgotten his old feud with the cattle king of the Pecos. Three of the cowboys were at a fire cooking supper and twenty yards away Barrett Howell was hobbling a cow pony. Billy rode up to Howell and asked him if he worked for John Chisholm. On being answered in the affirmative, the Kid shot the cowboy through the head at the same time crying in his high-pitched voice, "Well, there's your pay."

The cowboys at the fire sprang to their feet as they saw their comrade fall, but Bill's revolver spoke twice more and two of them fell dead. Then, covering the remaining cowboy with his revolver, Billy shrilled this message:

"You tell John Chisholm he owes me money. I'll credit him with $5 on the bill every time I kill one of his men. If I kill him the account is wiped out."—Outing.

Old Times in Washington

Dr. Edward Everett Hale in an article on "Washington Then and Now," in the Outlook, discourses pleasantly of the capital as he first knew it:

"The city has grown, in those sixty years, from a mud-hole which had 30,000 people, perhaps, within its borders, to a city of 250,000 inhabitants. The only part of this common (not far from the corner of I and Seventeenth streets) which was fenced in must have been near where the British embassy is now. We called it the gymnasium, I think. That was the high-sounding name for a bowling alley which the young men kept up. I remember one afternoon we persuaded Mrs. Madison, who was still alive, to visit us there, and with great effort she got a ball down the middle of the alley and was complimented on her knocking down the king. President Tyler came over and played with the young gentlemen sometimes. Everything had the simplicity and ease, if you please, of a small Virginia town. Whenever the weather would serve, a great many of the southern members of the House or the Senate rode to the Capitol on their saddle horses. There were thirty or forty posts in front of the Capitol near where the statue of Washington now stands. You rode up to one of those posts and hitched your horse. You left him while you went in and attended the meeting of the House; you came out and unhitched him and rode him to your 2 o'clock dinner."

Northward

Under the high unclouded sun
That makes the ship and shadow one,
I sail away as, from the fort,
Booms sullenly the noonday gun.

The odorous airs blow thin and fine,
The sparkling waves like emeralds shine,
The lustre of the coral reefs
Gleams whitely through the tepid brine.

And glitters o'er the liquid miles
The jeweled ring of verdant isles,
Where generous Nature holds her court
Of ripened bloom and sunny smiles.

Encinctured by the faithful seas
Inviolate gardens load the breeze,
Where flaunt like giant-warders' plumes
The pennants of the cocoa-trees.

Enthroned in light and bathed in balm,
In lonely majesty and palm
Blesses the isles with waving hands—
High-priest of the eternal calm.

Yet Northward with an equal mind
I steer my course, and leave behind
The rapture of the southern skies—
The wooing of the southern wind.

For here o'er Nature's wanton bloom
Falls far and near the shade of gloom,
Cast from the hovering vulture-wings
Of one dark thought of woe and doom.

I know that in the snow-white pines
The brave Norse fire of freedom shines,
And fain for this I leave the land
Where endless summer pranks the vines.

O strong, free North, so wise and brave!
O South, too lovely for a slave!
Why read ye not the changeless truth—
The free can conquer but to save?

May God upon these shining sands
Send Love and Victory clasping hands,
And Freedom's banners wave in peace
Forever o'er the rescued lands!

And here, in that triumphant hour,
Shall yielding Beauty wed with Power;
And blushing earth and smiling sea
In dalliance deck the bridal bower.

—John Hay.

FOR DECORATION DAY.

Why should she lay upon his grave a rose,
A simple rose made sweeter by her tears—
A fragile bloom to fade ere morning smile,
Unlike that flower of more exquisite grace,
Her love, that blossoms there through all the years?

—R. K. Munkittrick.

REUNITED.

We'll scatter sweet flowers of May,
To brighten each patriot's grave;
Alike o'er the blue and the gray,
The flag of our Union shall wave.

The living have fought side by side,
Together have vanquished the foe;
And one they will ever abide,
And truer and stronger grow.

We'll garland the graves of our dead,
And to our loved country be true
For the flag that to every victory led
Was borne by the gray and the blue.

Now, as reunited we stand,
Our warm tears bedewing the sod;
We'll commit the dear, silent band,
To the love and the peace of our God.

—M. E. Leonhardt.

THE UNKNOWN GRAVE.

The nameless grave! The rest is just as sweet
As if 'twere pillowed on an honored name.
A citizen lies there, although to fame
Unknown, perhaps, like many you may meet
Upon the highways or the public street.
A soldier dead, with dumb, unceasing prayer,
Pleaded a little dirt to hide the bare,
Cold limbs. Ah, more, indeed; one called to meet
The death-tide as it welled from battlefield,
And valiantly in the line of duty fell.
Still more, if the truth must fully tell:
He looks the hero which he was, and sealed
His claim by his life's blood. The unknown grave
Is known to be a brother's that was brave.

—L. O. Little.

Rushsville, Ill.

SONGS OF THE SOLDIERS.

Comrades known in marches many,
Comrades tried in dangers many,
Comrades bound by memories many,
Brothers ever let us be!
Wounds or sickness may divide us,
Marching orders may divide us,
But whatever fate betide us,
Brothers of the heart are we.

Comrades known by faith the clearest,
Tried when death was near and nearest,
Bound we are by ties the dearest,
Brothers evermore to be.
And if spared, and growing older,
Shoulder still in line with shoulder,
And with hearts no thrill the colder,
Brothers ever we shall be.

By communion of the banner,
Battle scarred but victor banner,
By the baptism of the banner,
Brothers of one church are we!
Creed nor faction can divide us,
Race nor language can divide us,
Still, whatever fate betide us,
Children of the flag are we!

—Miles O'Reilly.

THE PHANTOM ARMY.

And I saw a phantom army come,
With never a sound of fife or drum
But keeping step to a muffled hum
Of wailing lamentation;
The martyred heroes of Malvern Hill,
Of Gettysburg and Chancellorville—
The men whose wasted bodies dead,
The patriot graves of the Nation.

And there came the unknown dead, the men
Who died in fever swamp and fen,
The slowly starved of prison pen;
And, marching beside the others,
Came the dusky martyrs of Pillow's fight,
With limbs enfranchised and bearing bright
I thought—'twas the pale moonlight—
They looked as white as their brothers.

And so all night marched the Nation's dead,
With never a banner above them spread,
No sign save the bare, uncovered head
Of their silent, grim Reviewer;
With never an arch but the vaulted sky,
With not a flower save those which lie
On distant graves, for love could buy
No gift that was purer or truer.

So all night long moved the strange array;
So all night long, till the break of day,
I watched for one who had passed away
With a reverent awe and wonder;
Till a blue cap waved in the lengthening line,
And I knew that one who was kin of mine
Had come, and I spoke—and lo! that sign
Wakened me from my slumber.

—Bret Harte.

MAY THIRTIETH.

A flag and a fading wreath
Are out in the falling rain;
The stars and the withered buds
May never be fresh again.

But the memory wreath of the brave,
We twine of immortal bay
Is green in the Nation's heart
And never shall fade away.

—N. A. M. Roe.

THE CENTRE REPORTER.
S. W. SMITH, . . . Editor and Proprietor.

CENTRE HALL, . . . PENN'A.

THURSDAY, MAY 25, 1905.

TERMS.—The terms of subscription to the Reporter are one dollar per year in advance.

ADVERTISEMENTS.—20 cents per line for three insertions, and 5 cents per line for each subsequent insertion. Other rates made known on application.

The figures opposite your name on label of paper indicate the date to which your subscription is paid. When no date is given the date implied is July, 1900; when no month is given the month implied is July—thus: "00" means July, 1900; "01", means July, 1901; "04" means that your subscription is paid in advance to July, 1904. Other months than July are indicated by abbreviations.

When you pay your subscription always examine your label, and when a notice appears that corrections have been made, compare and report immediately if you have not been given proper credit. No receipts for subscription will be sent by mail unless by special request. The change of date on label ought to be sufficient evidence. Money by mail is reasonably safe. There have been no losses to this date.

RESOLUTIONS AND CARDS OF THANKS.—Resolutions of respect will be charged for at the rate of one-half cent per word, (payable in advance) the minimum charge being $1.00. Cards of thanks, two cents per word, minimum charge, fifty cents, also payable in advance.

DIVIDING THE TIPS.

The Method That Is Followed In Some London Restaurants.

Tipping has been reduced to a very fine system in some English hotels and restaurants. "I was sitting at meat with the manager of one of the well known London restaurants," says a writer. "'I am short sighted and unobservant,' I said, 'and as I never know one waiter from another I'm always uneasy lest I've tipped the wrong one.' The manager laughed. 'Fritz, bring the book,' he said. The book was opened upon the table and disclosed columns and rows of figures opposite the names of waiters. Between them the manager and Fritz explained the system.

"Every penny given in tips was cast into a common fund in charge of a waiter elected by his fellows. At the end of the week the sum was distributed. Three classes were arranged by the manager, according to efficiency, and the shares were in corresponding proportions, so that the junior who hovers with the sauce is by no means equally rewarded with the expert who can advise in the matter of wine.

"Waiters keep a jealous eye on their fellows, and the man suspected of pocketing a tip finds his position untenable. The system is good for the public, since it diminishes the unpleasing personality of a charitable action. It is good, too, for the waiters, since that record of the weekly gratuities showed that the best waiters made about $2,000 a year in tips."

YOUR MORNING DRAM.

Let It Be a Glass of Water and Enjoy an Inside Bath.

Drink a glass of water when you get out of bed in the morning. Never mind the size of the glass. Let the water be cold if you will. Some people prescribe hot water, but that isn't necessary. You may have washed your face already and relished the experience. You may have taken a cold plunge into the tub and delighted in the shock and its reaction. The brisk use of the toothbrush has left your mouth clean and the breath sweet. But you are dirty still.

Drink a glass of cold water and enjoy the sensation of being clean inside. All that is luxurious in the cold bath cleansing the outside is artificial. That which should prompt the glass of water after sleeping is natural.

Drink a glass of cold water in the name of cleanliness. It becomes one of the shortest and easiest of toilet duties. It is swallowed in a second, and in five minutes it has passed from the stomach, taking with it the clogging secretions of the alimentary tracts. It has left behind the stimulus that goes with cold water, and, by filling the arterial system to the normal, it puts a spur to the circulation that has grown sluggish in the night.—Chicago Chronicle.

THE BRIDE'S PORTION.

At One Time It Was Stated In the Wedding Announcement.

It was a common custom in the eighteenth century, especially during the reign of George II., to insert notices of marriage stating the bride's portion in contemporary periodicals and newspapers both in England and Scotland.

Almost every number of the Gentleman's Magazine at that time contained several of these records, of which the following, in 1731, is a specimen: "Married, the Revd. Mr. Roger Wainn, of York, about twenty-six year of age, to a Lincolnshire lady, upwards of eighty, with whom he is to have £8,000 in money, £300 per annum, and a coach and four, during life only."

Sometimes the notice merely describes the bride as a lady with a "good portion" or a "genteel fortune." One of the latest notices was in Aris' Birmingham Gazette, July 14, 1800, which recorded the marriage of Mr. Canning, undersecretary of state, to Miss Scott, "with £100,000 fortune."—London Telegraph.

Butterflies and Moths.

Though butterflies and moths are found widely distributed all over the globe they are by far most abundant in the tropics. For instance, Brazil can show to the collector not less than 700 different species within an hour's walk of Para. There are not half as many in all Europe. In Britain there are 67 species, and in all Europe there are 390 different kinds. They are found as far north as Spitzbergen, on the Alps to a height of 9,000 feet and on the Andes up to 18,000 feet. As there are some 200,000 species it is easy to see why butterfly hunters are great travelers.

Mr. Noll's Death.

In the death notice of W. R. Noll, in last week's issue, an error appeared. It was stated that Mr. Noll died at Jeannette, instead at the home of his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Noll, near Pleasant Gap. On hearing of the serious condition of his son, the father went to Jeannette, and about a week prior to his death brought the young man home where he was tenderly cared for. Mr. Noll's exact age was thirty-four years and twenty-one days.

Garbrick-Gentzel.

The marriage of Harry Garbrick, of Altoona, and Miss Clara Gentzel took place today (Thursday) at the home of the parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gentzel, east of Pleasant Gap. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. I. Stonecypher. The young couple will make their home in Altoona, where the groom is employed in the shops of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Heroes Passing Away.

A forceful reminder of the approaching Memorial Day appears in the statistics of the Grand Army of the Republic, Department of Pennsylvania, which shows that 1000 veterans of the rebellion die in this State every year between each Memorial Day. It is estimated that 100 veterans die daily in the United States.

A Good Suggestion.

Mr. C. B. Wainwright of Lemon City, Fla., has written the manufacturers that much better results are obtained from the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in cases of pains in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus by taking it in water as hot as can be drank. That when taken in this way the effect is double in rapidity. "It seems to get at the right spot instantly," he says. For sale by C. W. Swartz, Tusseyville; F. A. Carson, Potters Mills.

President Roosevelt prefers to live in a thoroughly Democratic town—one well regulated—and consequently selected Oyster Bay in which all the local offices are held by Democrats. There are a great many people who are ready to believe that the President knows a good thing.

Obstacles wouldn't be so bad if they weren't always getting in the way.

Why Suffer From Rheumatism?

Why suffer from rheumatism when one application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm will relieve the pain? The quick relief which this liniment affords makes rest and sleep possible, and that alone is worth many times its cost. Many who have used it hoping only for a short relief from suffering have been happily surprised to find that after awhile the relief became permanent. Mrs. V. H. Leggett of Yum Yum, Tennessee, U. S. A., writes. "I am a great sufferer from rheumatism, all over from head to foot, and Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the only thing that will relieve the pain." For sale by C. W. Swartz, Tusseyville; F. A. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Very Best.

"I have been using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and want to say it is the best cough medicine I have ever taken," says Geo. L. Chubb, a merchant of Harlan, Mich. There is no question about its being the best, as it will cure a cough or cold in less time than any other treatment. It should always be kept in the house ready for instant use, for a cold can be cured in much less time when promptly treated. For sale by C. W. Swartz, Tusseyville; F. A. Carson, Potters Mills.

MEETING OF CONFERENCE.

Sessions Open Monday—Twelve Ministers in Attendance.

The semi-annual meeting of the Northern Conference of the Central Pennsylvania Synod was held in St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran church, Centre Hall, May 22-24. The territory of conference embraces Union, Clinton and Centre counties. There are fifteen pastorates in the conference. Twelve ministers were present at the opening. The absentees were Dr. H. C. Holloway, Bellefonte, and Rev. M. O. Puhl, Germania.

The following lay delegates, representing the various pastorates, were present: Benjamin Limbert, Rebersburg; Isaac Stover, Nittany; Wallace Ilgen, Sugar Valley; James L. Miller, Mifflinburg; J. D. Wagner, Centre Hall; George Dale, Boalsburg.

The opening sermon was preached Monday evening by Rev. W. H. Schoch from the text found in Lamentations 3:25.

Tuesday morning the session opened with a half hour devotional service, conducted by Rev. H. C. Bixler. One hour was devoted to organization, enrollment of delegates and business.

The regular program was opened at ten o'clock by an able discussion on the eighth article of the Augsburg Confession—"What the Church is," by Rev. C. L. McConnell. The second subject—"The Test of Divine Guidance," was opened by Rev. G. C. H. Hasskarl, Ph. D. A number of the ministers participated in the discussion of these subjects.

Rev. McConnell set forth the divine origin of the church, the efficiency of the means of grace. Rev. C. T. Aikens followed with a practical and forceful discussion of the same subject.

Rev. J. W. Boal, D. D., and Rev. W. H. Schuyler, Ph. D., of the Presbyterian church, also Rev. D. Gress, of the Reformed church, were introduced and invited to a seat.

Dr. Boal was asked to speak on the second subject, and did so, to the great pleasure of conference.

The president announced the various committees and the morning session closed with prayer by Rev. Aikens.

Tuesday afternoon session opened with business of the conference, followed by a discussion of the subject, "Sin," under three heads—"What it is," by Rev. B. B. Uhl and Rev. F. Aurand; "The Christians attitude toward sin," by Rev. W. H. Schoch; "How to overcome sin," by Rev. H. C. Bixler. These excellent papers provoked a general discussion which furnished much food for thought. The chief difficulty was the absence, as usual, of those to whom such a subject is especially applicable.

The afternoon session closed with prayer by Dr. Boal.

The sermon Tuesday evening was delivered by Rev. L. N. Fleck. Rev. C. L. McConnell and Rev. F. Aurand assisted in the exercises.

Brisbin & Company Buy Property.

Brisbin & Company, the Centre Hall lumber manufacturers, have purchased the Oliver Love home, near Colyer, containing about fifty-five acres. A part of the tract is timber land, which will be retained by the purchasers, and the remainer is offered for sale.

Head the Probable Man.

There is every indication that John B. Head, of Westmoreland county, will be the Democratic nominee for supreme court judge. Up to the hour of going to press no positive information has been received, but Head's nomination may reasonably be taken for granted.

Serious Accident.

Mrs. Samuel Klinefelter, of near Centre Hall, was seriously injured Sunday evening by being thrown from a spring wagon on her way home from services at Zion church, above Tusseyville. While in the neighborhood of McClellans, at Tussey sink school house, the horses took fright and began running, and the driver, Fred Klinefelter, lost control of them. At or near the turn, at the school house, the occupants were thrown from the wagon. Mrs. Klinefelter received a deep gash on her head and was otherwise injured. Miss Viola Bubb was rendered unconscious, but was not seriously hurt. Miss Maude Klinefelter and the driver escaped injury.

The horses broke loose from the wagon, and in their mad flight one of them was killed.

Dr. George Lee, the attending physician reports Mrs. Klinefelter as getting along very well considering the seriousness of her injuries.

Mrs. Barner, an aged lady residing at North Spring street in Bellefonte, while on a visit to her daughter at Jersey Shore, was found dead in bed at that place Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Nathaniel Brown, of Spring Mills, sent a lot of choice lettuce to this office that would be hard to match in any way. It is unusually large for so early in the season, and is as crisp as lettuce can be. It was raised from seed that has been in the Brown family for seventy-five years.

THAT OIL WELL.

Machinery in Place—Mr. Brown on Hand—Operations will be Commenced Within a Few Days.

W. H. Brown, the contractor is here and during the past few days has been busily engaged in erecting the machinery preparatory to beginning operations to sink a well on the farm of George H. Emerick, immediately east of Centre Hall.

The exact time for beginning this work can not now be positively stated, but it will be within one week. The engine, all the machinery, drills, etc., and a full complement of skilled drillers are on hand and only the slight details need attention before work begins in earnest.

The probabilities are that the drilling will be preceded by formal ceremonies, the time of which will be announced on a bulletin at this office.

LOCALS.

Dr. G. W. Hosterman went to Lancaster for several days this week.

Rev. G. W. McIlnay will preach a memorial sermon at Spring Mills, Sunday evening.

W. B. Mingle, Esq., and J. H. Weber, of this place, Tuesday afternoon went to Harrisburg to attend the Democratic State Convention. The former is one of the delegates representing Centre county in that body.

William Homan, one of the first farmers in this section to complete planting corn, was oblized to replant almost the whole of the crop, owing to ravages of cut worms. Farmers generally are complaining of the mischief this pest is doing this season.

Howard Baskerville, a student at Princeton, is acting as supply for the members of Plainview Presbyterian church, near Elm Springs, North Dakota. Mr. Baskerville is well known in Centre Hall, where he spent several years of his life when a boy. He is a son of Rev. H. C. Baskerville.

Rev. David J. Davis, pastor of Lemont charge of the United Brethren church, and Miss Anna Behers, of Houserville, were united in marriage by the Rev. Davidson at the United Brethren parsonage, Bellefonte, Monday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Davis have gone to Ohio to spend their honeymoon.

Robert Zeigler and son, Carl, of Reedsville, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Slack for several days this week. Mr. Zeigler, some weeks ago, had the misfortune to have his hand badly injured at the the planing mill of Joseph Kelley, and while the wound is healing nicely, he has not been able to do any work since the accident. Mr. Zeigler is a cousin of Mr. Slack's.

The June number of Everybody's brings to us the crucial instalment of "Frenzied Finance," Mr. Lawson's intimate recital of the First Great Crime of Amalgamated. The happenings of that now famous midnight session at the National City Bank on May 4, 1899, when Henry H. Rogers and James Stillman introduced an infamous bogus subscription and defrauded and robbed thousands, are clearly and dramatically told.

George Breon, one of the young men who began farming this spring, is proud over the fact that he can manage a team in such a way as to get the benefit of their full hauling strength. This was demonstrated Monday, when with a team of two horses he hauled a boiler weighing 70,000 lbs., from the railroad station to the oil derrick, east of town. "Old Dick," well known on the streets, is past twenty-three years, and the attention he attracted seemed to make him a horse of six.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. DEATHS.

J. W. POTTER.

From the Ogle County Review-Herald.

James W. Potter was born at Boalsburg, Pa., August 24, 1830 and died at his late home in Forreston, Ogle county, Illinois, aged seventy-four years, eight months and six days. He grew to young manhood in his native state, coming west after he was married. He was united in marriage to Miss Mary L. Ingram November 8, 1855. To this union one son, Samuel, and one daughter, Luella, were born. Both died when still quite young.

Mr. Potter was a faithful son of his country and served two years in the Civil war, being a member of the 148th Pennsylvania regiment, Co. F. It was during the time when he was a soldier that he contracted dyspepsia from which he suffered at frequent intervals until his death.

Mr. Potter was a resident of Forreston for a number of years. He was engaged as a builder and contractor by trade and held the responsible position of police magistrate for a number of years. He was re-elected to that office several weeks prior to his death. He was a member of the Methodist church for many years and on Easter Sunday this year, united with the Lutheran church by letter. Besides his wife, who has the sympathy of the entire community in this time of sorrow, he leaves to mourn his death one brother and one sister—William F. Potter, Pleasant Gap, Pa.; Mrs. Sarah E. McBride, Hobert, Oklahoma.

MRS. GRANT DUNKLEBARGER.

The death of Mrs. Grant Dunklebarger occurred Sunday morning at her home at Pleasant Gap. She had never fully recovered from illness due to confinement. Interment was made in the Lutheran cemetery Tuesday.

Mrs. Dunklebarger was the daughter of John Griffith, of Pleasant Gap, and is survived by her husband and ten children all at home.

JOHN ROTE.

At the advanced age of about eighty years, the death of John Rote occurred at the home of his grandson John Vonada, at Coburn, Saturday. Interment was made at Aaronsburg Tuesday. He is survived by five children—Simon, William, Mrs. Andrew Vonada and Mrs. Adam Stover, all of Coburn: and Luther, of Lamar.

DR. MOFFAT ELECTED MODERATOR.

A Pennsylvanian at the Head of Presbyterian General Assembly.

The meeting of Presbyterian General Assembly at Winona Lake, Indiana, was begun by a sermon by the retiring moderator, Dr. Henry, on "Son, go work today in my vineyard."

Dr. James D. Moffat, president of Washington & Jefferson College, Washington, Pa., was by acclamation unanimously chosen moderator. Justice Harlan, of the U. S. Supreme Court, was appointed vice-moderator.

The report of the Sabbath observance committee showed that railroad men and labor unions are interested in preserving a day of rest. Justice Harlan made it very clear that it was the duty of State Legislatures to sustain Christian sentiment and preserve the Christian Sabbath. He intimated very plainly that the Supreme Court would stand for such legislation.

Justice Harlan pleaded for the Sabbath as the poor man's day of rest, and deplored the tendency to imitate foreign custom, and make the Sabbath the great day for receptions and dinners. He declared that railroads and rich persons had no right to rob the laboring classes of their appointed day of rest.

The Evangelistic committee, under whose auspices several of the larger cities have had great revivals, was unanimously continued. Thus the Assembly showed its great desire to arouse the whole church to greater interest and zeal for the conversion of men.

Dr. Agnew, secretary of the Board of Ministerial Relief, made an earnest plea for more generous support of aged and disabled ministers and their dependent families.

On Sunday Dr. Moffat preached on John Knox, the 21st of May being observed pretty generally by Presbyterians as the 400th anniversary of the birth of the reformer. The Moderator took occasion to express the hope that his church and the United Presbyterians might be able to unite before a great while.

Without a speech and without a dissenting vote the Assembly took the next step towards consummating the union with the Cumberland church and appointed a committee of twenty-one to arrange details. This was on Monday. The session will probably continue during the week.

May 20 was Independence day on the island of Cuba. The third anniversary of the establishment of the Republic was celebrated with general demonstrations of patriotic rejoicing in all parts of the island.

"I was in such a state that my friends were alarmed about me, and I was advised to leave this climate Then I tried Peruna, and to my great joy found it helped me from the first dose I took, and a few bottles cured me.

Butcher's Hair Was Like Wagner's.

Wagner, a German folk tale relates, became afflicted with headache and determined to have his hair cut. He accordingly arranged with a barber to perform the operation on a certain day. That worthy resolved to make a good thing of it, and accordingly informed all his customers of Wagner's impending sacrifice.

Most of them paid him a certain sum down. To the barber's horror, Mme. Wagner superintended the cutting, and when it was over appropriated the whole of the coveted locks.

The barber, in despair, confessed that he had sold them many times over, whereupon madam suggested that the butcher had hair much like Wagner's.

And the story goes that that night half Dresden slept with the butcher's hair under its pillow.

LIVING TOO HASTILY

AMERICAN WOMEN BREAK DOWN

Irregularities and Female Derangements Result Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Owing to our mode and manner of living, and the nervous haste of every woman to accomplish just so much each day, it is said that there is not one woman in twenty-five but what suffers with some derangement of the female organism, and this is the secret of so many unhappy homes.

Mrs. Chester Curry

No woman can be amiable, light-hearted and happy, a joy to her husband and children, and perform the duties incumbent upon her, when she is suffering with backache, headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, bearing-down pains, displacement of the womb, spinal weakness or ovarian troubles.

Irritability and snappy retorts take the place of pleasantness, and all sunshine is driven out of the home, and lives are wrecked by woman's great enemy—womb trouble.

Read this letter:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I was troubled for eight years with irregularities which broke down my health and brought on extreme nervousness and despondency. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound proved to be the only medicine which helped me. Day by day I improved in health while taking it until I was entirely cured. I can attend to my social and household duties and thoroughly enjoy life once more, as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me a well woman, without an ache or a pain." —Mrs. Chester Curry, 42 Saratoga Street, East Boston, Mass.

At the first indication of ill health, painful or irregular menstruation, pain in the side, headache, backache, bearing-down pains, nervousness or "the blues," secure at once a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begin its use.

"I tell you, Brother Carruthers," exclaimed Uncle James, "the thing is impossible. The South cannot really mean war. No, no! There are too many strong ties between the North and South, too much real love, too many mutual interests, too many men of brains and sense."

Uncle James Linlith, thus standing with his back to the fire, his six feet four inches of manly grace towering high above the low mantel, his benevolent and powerful face surmounted by its halo of thick and wavy silver hair, dominated all others in the room as cathedrals dominate the cottages at their feet, yet there were several persons present whose future deeds were to show them to be men and women of far more than usual strength in the time that "tried men's souls to prove what manner of men they were."

The little gathering on this special evening occupied the large back parlor of a broad red brick and white marble house on St. Mark's Place, a quarter of New York City which had long held its own among the most fashionable, but into which the blight of the boarding-house was just beginning to make insidious inroads. The time was early perhaps in January; I do not quite remember, but I know that it was shortly after the meeting of the futile so called Peace Commission, and only succeeded in sowing heavier crops of thistles. At least two of the men present had been members of that Commission, and had returned from Washington oppressed by the consciousness that matters were in a much more serious condition than the others were willing to admit.

The little assembly of fine-looking men and women before the speaker was just now very grave. There were friends from north and south of Mason and Dixon's line—honest, whole-souled persons, all of them, though their sentiments differed as widely as their faces. Some were young, and some there were that we, the youthful ones, thought were very old indeed. I believe that one of them must have been almost sixty years old, and was treated with reverence by all save Uncle James, who boasted nearly as many years and had a far more venerable appearance, by dint of wearing his own beautiful white hair, while the elder man felt himself compelled to disport a shiny, dark brown wig.

This gentleman, Uncle Carruthers, had just risen to make some reply to his tall brother-in-law's remarks, when the persistent and shrill calling of "Extra! Extray!" penetrated the closed doors, and windows. "Extras" at that time commanded an attention which they seldom receive today.

For an instant all maintained the attitudes in which they had been caught by the newsman's cry. Then there was a break, a dash for doors and windows.

Alas! there was no mistake. The words were plain and each syllable was like a bullet: "The flag is fired upon at Fort Sumter."

The next morning proved this to have been a false alarm, but the effect on the peaceful little group of old and young was the same that it might have been later when the sad tidings were true. Among those present were North and South Carolinians, citizens of Connecticut and New York, Virginians and people from Massachusetts, and from Louisiana and one from Ohio; and with the exception of two or three who were in feeble health, I believe there was not one who did not, in the sad days to come, take a creditable part on the one side or the other in differing but active ways.

In one corner stood Bessie Calvert from Charleston and Phillip Schuyler from Albany. The high back of the old-fashioned sofa had shielded the hands while sitting which they had forgotten to unclasp as they unconsciously rose and gazed at each other with blanched faces. Near them stood Wallace Graham, of Beaufort, N. C., who had involuntarily flung his arm around Nina Suydam, as if he would defy any rending of the bethrothal ties which had so lately united them. The old men stared at each other, white to the lips with unspoken grief, while unnoticed tears stole down their strong faces; the young men glared at each other with a fierce amaze, and the women, whether old or young, sobbed with a grief that could not be uttered.

For a few moments this smothered sobbing was the only sound in the lately so animated room; but soon there was commotion enough for a revolutionary assembly, during which every one talks and no one hearkens. I hardly remember how the party broke up, but I know that it proved to be the last meeting on earth for some who had loved each other well, and the last for many months or years of others.

The next morning beheld a parting that was stormy on the one side and tearful on the other between Wallace Graham and Nina Suydam in the same old parlors. Wallace was hot-headed, a furious States' Rights partisan, and Nina was a loyal daughter of the Union, looking upon war only as a last resort. True, it had not yet been declared, but all felt that it soon would be, and Wallace Graham left New York that night to "go with his State," whatever action she might take. Before that week was out not one of the evening's group of friends who was born south of Washington City was to be found in New York.

New Yorkers of thirty-five years ago will remember the fine but sadly unsanitary old City Hospital set fifty feet or more back from Broadway on Pearl Street. A day or two after the news of the first terrible "Seven Days before Richmond," it was rumored that this old hospital was to receive some of the wounded who had been deemed able to travel so far from the field where they were stricken.

This was work for women, and at home. So far there had not been many women engaged in hospital work, although in the labor of preparing hospital supplies they had been incessant and tireless.

Among the first in New York City to ask admittance to the hospital as a nurse was Nina Suydam. She was "too young and pretty," said gruff old Surgeon Dally, a good man and kind. But in spite of the old surgeon's objections Nina obtained a pass, "for one day only, to walk about, cry, and get sick of it," said the good-hearted old chestnut burr, as he signed the paper.

That very day Nina happened to be passing the door of the operating room just as a fainting attendant was being carried forth, and the old surgeon, without raising his eyes from his work was crying out:

"Somebody come and take this sponge, and be quick about it!"

Nina's father was also a surgeon (now at the front) and she had been taught by him how to make herself useful in emergencies. This day's work proved her efficiency, and was the beginning of a long and arduous service in hospital wards. Young, pretty and endowed with a nameless attraction which is more ponent than youth or beauty, and continues to exert its forces when these are gone, Nina soon found her way to "the front,"—the sad, terrible, magnificent "front," where all the virtures and all the vices fought side by side in the same great cause, and so learned lessons from each other; for even vices—so long as they are not inhuman—have aspects which are not all bad, and can sometimes support the virtues with an unexpected strength.

At the "front" was much evil, but also much good. Weakness was made strong, and harshness was softened Death and hardship are stern masters, but good metal is wielded under their blows. Maidenly and sweet young women tended in hospitals where the rough and the gentle of those who had worn the blue or the gray lay side by side, and never by word, deed or look were harmed by any. Hundreds are still living who will willingly testify to this.

There had been a terrible day in the hospital at Fortress Monroe. It was after fatal Fredericksburg and the wounded had been almost piled in the wards, filling the floors so closely that passing between the lines of prostrate men was a difficult matter. There were not nearly enough mattresses and cots to provide for all, for by one of these blunders which are always being made by no one knows whom, a big shipment of these essentials which had been forwarded to Fortress Monroe by the ever-to-be blessed Sanitary Commission, had been sent back to Baltimore. He who had a matress had not a cot, and he who had a cot had not a mattress, and yet, even so divided, the supply was so far short of the need that bare floors were thankfully accepted, if in any place where the wounded could be under shelter.

Overworked surgeons, hurrying orderlies, deft-handed colored assistants and light-stepping women in short, cool gowns of linen or gingham which might have been clean in the morning, but were anything else by now, were getting about between the parallel rows or suffering or uncounscious men as best they might. Words were few, but voices were not hushed. The grievously wounded have not kneely sensitive nerves to anything external to themselves; it is only convalescents who possess these incumbrances. One poor fellow who had been removed from his comfortable cot to make room for another in a worse plight than himself, raised his voice in complaint against the "racket."

A cherry voice exclaimed, "Is that you, Johnny Glider? I'm glad to hear that grumble! It's a sign you're getting better."

The speaker passed lightly onward carrying a big pitcher of beef tea in one hand, and a small tin cup in the other, administering the pitcher's contents impartially to those who seemed most in need of it, for those days were too hurried to maks out the usual hospital lists and keep records. The beef tea went around to all alike, "every hours if possible, and every two hours if possible," according to the customary and lucid, if somewhat Hiberian phraseology of the wards.

At the sound of the nurse's cheery voice, a sorely wounded man opened his one unbandaged eye, and gave a faint cry of, "Nina! O Nina!"

She stopped and turned. The woman, trained by months of service to meet and minister to all forms of suffering without a tremor, swayed and almost lost her precious burden; for beef tea was precious in those ill-provided days. A quick-eyed orderly, springing forward, caught the pitcher and it bearer.

Another instant and Nina was kneeling on the floor, the bandaged and bloody head pressed close to her bosom, her whole being thrilling to her low: "Thank God! Thank God! Oh, my Wallace, my own, my own!"

Over fort, camp and hospital, and far out over the heaving black sea lightning and thunders flashed and roared, and the rains dashed with unheeded fury; but the heavy air grew lighter and sweeter beneath them all, and a quickening pulse of life ran from man to man, and from ward to ward.

In the bright dawn of the morning it was a radiant face that bowed above the battered soldier who had worn the gray. The surgeon was just going to snatch an hour or two of the heavy slumber which comes only to those who are "tired almost to death." He paused a moment to look down at the two. "Yes, my brave girl," he said, in response to her joyful eyes, "yes, he will live now." As the weary surgeon went on, the girl bent over her lover, and kissed almost the only unbandaged spot, an eyelid closed in saving sleep.—Woman's Home Companion.

SOLDIER'S REST! THY WARFARE O'ER.

Soldier, rest! thy warfare o'er,
Sleep the sleep that knows not breaking;
Dream of battlefields no more,
Days of danger, nights of waking.
In our isle's enchanted hall
Hands unseen thy couch are stewing
Fairy strains of music fall,
Every sense in slumber dewing.
Soldier, rest! thy warfare o'er,
Dream of fighting fields no more;
Sleep the sleep that knows not breaking,
Morn of toil, nor night of waking.

No rude sound shall reach thine ear,
Armor's clang or war-steed champing,
Trump nor pibroch summon here
Mustering clan, or squardon tramping.
Yet the lark's shrill fife may come
At the daybreak from the fallow,
And the bittern sound his drum,
Booming from the sedgy shallow.
Ruder sounds shall none be near;
Guards or warders challenge here;
Here's no war-steed's neigh and champing,
Shouting clans or squardons stamping.

Railroads and Progress.

In his testimony before the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce at Washington on May 4, Professor Hugo R. Meyer, of Chicago University, an expert on railroad management, made this statement:

"Let us look at what might have happened if we had heeded the protests of the farmers of New York and Ohio and Pennsylvania (in the seventies when grain from the West began pouring to the Atlantic seaboard) and acted upon the doctrine which the Interstate Commerce Commission has enunciated time and again, that no man may be deprived of the advantages accruing to him by virtue of his geographical position. We could not have west of the Mississippi a population of millions of people who are prosperous and are great consumers. We never should have seen the years when we built 10,000 and 12,000 miles of railway, for there would have been no farmers west of the Mississippi River who could have used the land that would have been opened up by the building of those railways. And, if we had not seen the years when we could build 10,000 and 12,000 miles of railway a year, we should not have to-day, east of the Mississippi, a steel and iron producing centre which is at once the marvel and the despair of Europe, because we could not have built up a steel and iron industry if there had been no market for its product.

"We could not have in New England a great boot and shoe industry; we could not have in New England a great cotton milling industry; we could not have spread throughout New York and Pennsylvania and Ohio manufacturing industries of the most diversified kinds, because those industries would have no market among the farmers west of the Mississippi River.

"And, while the progress of this country, while the development of the agricultural West of this country, did mean the impairment of the agricultural value east of the Mississippi River that ran up into hundreds of millions of dollars, it meant, incidentally, the building up of great manufacturing industries that added to the value of this land by thousands of millions of dollars. And, gentlemen, these things were not foreseen in the seventies. The statesmen and the public men of this country did not see what part the agricultural development of the West was going to play in the industrial development of the East. And, you may read the decisions of the Interstate Commerce Commission, from the first to the last, and what is one of the greatest characteristics of those decisions? The continued inability to see the question in this large way.

"The Interstate Commerce Commission never can see anything more than that the farm land of some farmer is decreasing in value, or, that some man, who has a flour mill with a production of fifty barrels a day, is being crowded out. It never can see that the destruction or impairment of farm values in this place means the building up of farm values in that place, and that that shifting of values is a necessary incident to the industrial and manufacturing development of this country. And, if we shall give to the Interstate Commerce Commission power to regulate rates, we shall no longer have our rates regulated on the statesmanlike basis on which they have been regulated in the past by the railway men, who really have been great statesmen; who really have been great builders of empires; who have had an imagination that rivals the imagination of the greatest poet and of the greatest inventor, and who have operated with a courage and daring that rivals the courage and daring of the greatest military general. But we shall have our rates regulated by a body of civil servants, bureaucrats, whose besetting sin the world over, is that they can never grasp a situation in a large way and with the grasp of the statesman; that they never can see the fact that they are confronted with a small evil; that that evil is relatively small, and that it cannot be corrected except by the creation of evils and abuses which are infinitely greater than the one that is to be corrected."

Has Seen Many Years' Service.

A quaint old piece of baggage in the baggage room in Skowhegan, Me., this week was a hair-covered trunk that had come in from Guilford. On the bottom of the trunk was the mark "BxP," which signified that at some period in its life it had gone by rail to Boston. In early days there were no checks, the destination of a piece of baggage being designated by a mark. This was forty-two years ago.

Clarence M. Busch, of Philadelphia, whose bid was the lowest for doing the printing for the State for four years, from July 1 next, will be held to his contract by Superintendent of Public Printing Pomeroy. Mr. Busch submitted a proposal that was adjudged the lowest and the contract was awarded him. Subsequently the Legislature reduced the number of public documents to be printed by 85,000. Mr. Busch, claiming that he had made the larger number of documents his basis of his bid, protested against being held to the contract. The matter was submitted to the Attorney General, and after a conference between the latter, the Governor and Mr. Pomeroy it was decided to notify Mr. Busch that he must do the printing under his bid or forfeit to the next lowest bidder and pay the difference.

After a strike of less than two days' duration, the 300 men and boys employed at the Mary D. Colliery, Tuscarora, returned to work, Superintendent Tindley guaranteeing that in the future the same rate of wages would be paid at that colliery as at the collieries of the Philadelphia & Reading Sompany.

A committee of the Alumni Association of Darlington Seminary, appointed to prepare plans for a memorial to Mrs. Darlington, wife of Dr. Richard Darlington, founder of this institution, has decided that the memorial shall be placed in the Chester County Hospital.

ANOTHER LIFE SAVED.

Mrs. G. W. Fooks, of Salisbury, Md., wife of G. W. Fooks, Sheriff of Wicomico County, says: "I suffered with kidney complaint for eight years. It came on me gradually. I felt tired and weak, was short of breath and was troubled with bloating after eating, and my limbs were badly swollen. One doctor told me it would finally turn to Bright's disease. I was laid up at one time for three weeks. I had not taken Doan's Kidney Pills more than three days when the distressing aching across my back disappeared, and I was soon entirely cured."

Moose Head of Immense Size.

What is probably the largest moose head in the world belongs to John Richardson of Glenwood Springs, Col.

The head measures seventy-two and a half inches from tip to tip, without any split or block. It is exactly as nature made it and could be spread several inches by various devices.

In its lifetime the bull weighed approximately 2,000 pounds, the head and antlers, mounted, weighing 275 pounds.

The animal was killed by Frank Woods on Copper river, Alaska, after a long chase of several days over mountains and through valleys. The animal was the leader of a large herd, many of which were killed, but the big bull moose was the object of the hunt after he was spied by the party.

Money Hidden in Books.

Last December an old man known as M. Henri died in the Rue de Patay, Paris. He was known to possess private means, but that they were meager was indicated by his shabbiness and the fact that he lived alone in a single room. When a search of M. Henri's room was made after his death nothing more valuable was found than two shelves of dingy looking books, which were sold, with his few stocks of furniture, to pay his funeral expenses. When, however, the buyer of the books examined his purchase he discovered to his amazement two volumes of rare value—absolutely unique—for every page of each of them, 820 in all, was a $25 note of the Bank of England.

GREAT CHANGE

From Change in Food.

The brain depends much more on the stomach than we are apt to suppose until we take thought in the matter. Feed the stomach on proper food easy to digest and containing the proper amount of phosphates and the healthy brain will respond to all demands. A notable housewife in Buffalo writes:

"The doctor diagnosed my trouble as a 'nervous affection of the stomach.' I was actually so nervous that I could not sit still for five minutes to read the newspaper, and to attend to my household duties was simply impossible. I doctored all the time with remedies, but medicine did no good.

"My physician put me on all sorts of diet, and I tried many kinds of cereal foods, but none of them agreed with me. I was almost discouraged, and when I tried Grape-Nuts I did so with many misgivings—I had no faith that it would succeed where everything else had failed.

"But it did succeed, and you don't know how glad I am that I tried it. I feel like a new person. I have gained in weight and I don't have that terrible burning sensation in my stomach any more. I feel so strong again that I am surprised at myself. The street noises that used to irritate me so, I never notice now, and my mind is so clear that my household duties are a real pleasure."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

Now why was this great change made in this woman?

The stomach and the brain had not been supplied with the right kind of food to rebuild and strengthen the nerve centres in these organs. It is absolute folly to try to do this with medicine. There is but one sure way, and that is to quit the old food that has failed and take on Grape-Nuts food, which is more than half digested in the process of manufacture and is rich in the phosphate of potash contained in the natural grain, which unites with albumen and water—the only three substances that will make up the soft gray filling in the thousands of delicate nerve centres in the brain and body. Grape-Nuts food is a sure road back to health in all such cases.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Conviction Follows Trial

When buying loose coffee or anything your grocer happens to have in his bin, how do you know what you are getting? Some queer stories about coffee that is sold in bulk, could be told, if the people who handle it (grocers), cared to speak out.

Could any amount of mere talk have persuaded millions of housekeepers to use

Lion Coffee,

the leader of all package coffees for over a quarter of a century, if they had not found it superior to all other brands in

Purity, Strength, Flavor and Uniformity?

This popular success of LION COFFEE can be due only to inherent merit. There is no stronger proof of merit than continued and increasing popularity.

If the verdict of MILLIONS OF HOUSEKEEPERS does not convince you of the merits of LION COFFEE, it costs you but a trifle to buy a package. It is the easiest way to convince yourself, and to make you a PERMANENT PURCHASER.

LION COFFEE is sold only in 1 lb. sealed packages, and reaches you as pure and clean as when it left our factory.

NATIONAL ELECTION DAY.

Why It's the Tuesday After the First Monday in November.

Why should the law prescribe "the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November" instead of saying "the first Tuesday?" Like many other small things this provision introduces an interesting picture of the past.

Although the constitution requires the electors in all the states to meet and choose a president on the same day, it was not until 1845 that a law was passed by congress providing that the electors should be chosen on the same day throughout the United States. When William Henry Harrison was the Whig candidate, in 1840, New York began to vote on the first Monday in November, and the polls were kept open until Wednesday night. Election day in Massachusetts was the second Monday, but before that day, in this instance, enough states had voted to decide the contest. The National Intelligencer of that year records that several thousand aged and infirm Whigs in Massachusetts did not bother to go to the polls.

Delaware voted a day later than Massachusetts. Illinois, Indiana and Pennsylvania were among the early voting states. Alabama was one of the last. This diversity, combined with slow methods of transmitting news, left the election results in doubt for many days.

The system was not satisfactory. The states that voted early had an undue influence on the result. Especially was this true as communication became more rapid, and by 1840 an enthusiastic editor told how the news from Pittsburg had been brought to New York in thirty-five hours. "This," he added significantly, "is a sign of the times."

Congress accordingly decided to establish a uniform day. The original bill named the first Tuesday in November, but it was found necessary to harmonize this with the requirement that not more than thirty days should elapse before the meeting of the electoral colleges in the different states, which had been set for the first Wednesday in December. When Tuesday is the first day of November, December will have no Wednesday till the seventh. The interval is thirty-seven days. Under the law as it was passed in 1845 not more than twenty-nine days can elapse between election day and the first Wednesday in December. Under the law of 1887 the electors do not meet to give their votes until the second Monday in January.—Youth's Companion.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

If you don't want to jeopardize friendship don't lend money to friends.

When we hear of a person who refused to submit to an operation and got well we feel like cheering.

The youngest girl in a family is liable to put on princess airs long after her sixteen-year-old complexion fades.

Elderly men should not judge young men by themselves. Young men and elderly men are entirely different propositions.

The colors in a tree don't appeal to a man so much as the lumber in it, and all the poetry in the world will not change him.

Families should be good and large, so that every member will hear the real truth about himself from at least a half dozen persons.

Old fashioned hospitality is dying out. Perhaps you are to blame for killing off some of it. Did you ever visit often and too long?—Atchison Globe.

Japanese Courage.

The little men of Japan can give the world many thrilling stories of courage and many of clever stratagem as well.

One of the powerful nobles of the olden time was forced to flee from his enemy in haste. He hid in a barrel and was borne away by servants, who, meeting the enemy, declared that the barrel contained food.

"If there is anything living in it there will be blood on my sword," said the nobleman's enemy and thrust his weapon into the barrel. It went through the hidden man's legs and made a terrible wound. But he, with quick thought, wiped the blade on the hem of his garment as it was drawn out, so that it went out clean, and he was not discovered.

A Vast Fortune Is Not Riches.

To be engulfed in one's occupation, swallowed up in a complicated life, harassed by the striving and straining, the worry and anxiety which accompany a vast fortune, is not to be rich. Time and opportunity and inclination to help others are the most valuable things in the world, and if you cannot seize these, if you cannot utilize them to your own enlargement, your own betterment, you are poor indeed although you have millions in the bank.—Success.

Sympathetic.

"You look awfully tired, young man," said the benevolent looking woman to the young man with the books under his arm.

"Yes, ma'am," replied the student. "I'm studying for a doctor."

"It's a shame! Why don't you let the doctor study for himself?"—Yonkers Statesman.

His Lawyer's Bill.

How to Ward off Old Age.

The most successful way of warding off the approach of old age is to maintain a vigorous digestion. This can be done by eating only food suited to your age and occupation, and when any disorder of the stomach appears take a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets to correct it. If you have a weak stomach or are troubled with indigestion, you will find these Tablets to be just what you need. For sale by C. W. Swartz, Tusseyville; F. A. Carson, Potters Mills.

THE SHARPLESS TUBULAR CREAM SEPARATOR is a short cut, saving half the dairy work. It is a low-down machine. There is no drudgery in washing the simple three piece Dairy Tubular Separator bowl. Avoid bucket bowls. They're all full of troublesome parts. Twenty-six sizes—take the one that will accommodate your herd. Considering the durability of the machine, the price is the lowest of any separator on the market. For further particulars write or apply in person to

Beautify Your Home

That house of yours can be made more beautiful, more cozy, and much more home-like if you add a little new Furniture to it.

That kitchen needs a cabinet; a side-board will improve your dining room, and a parlor suit will make your parlor an Eden for you; an iron bed or a good chamber suit will make your bed room a most inviting place for your needed night's repose.

We have them all, and good ones too, for less money than you can get them anywhere else.

Come and see for yourself that you can save money at the . . . . . .
